85. THE NEW CODE OF CONDUCT GUIDANCE FOR LOCAL AUTHORITY MEMBERS

The Monitoring Officer reported that the Committee at its meeting on 16 January 2015 had received a report which informed of proposals made by the Ombudsman to revise the Guidance on the Code of Conduct for Local Authority Members. He stated that the Ombudsman had proposed a further public interest test be considered when deciding whether to investigate a complaint or whether to continue an investigation of a breach of the Code to the stage of referring the matter to the Adjudication Panel for Wales.

The Monitoring Officer reported that the Ombudsman had issued a new test which had changed as a result of complaints received from Monitoring Officers in Wales. He stated that in determining whether to investigate a complaint or whether to continue an investigation of a breach of the Code a two stage test will be applied. At the first stage, the Ombudsman will aim to establish whether there is direct evidence that a breach actually took place and if the evidential test was met, at the second stage, consideration would be given as to whether an investigation or a referral to a Standards Committee or the Adjudication Panel for Wales is required in the public interest.

The Monitoring Officer highlighted some of the public interest factors that the Ombudsman will consider which were set out in the new Code of Conduct. He stated that the Ombudsman had determined that if it was felt a case did not warrant a sanction, the case would not be referred to the Monitoring Officer.

The Monitoring Officer informed the Committee that he would be reporting the new Code of Conduct to Council.

RESOLVED: That the Committee noted the new Code of Conduct Guidance.
