Continuing translation of static sections of English site.		E – Communications and Web Officer	As at 31 March 2014, 1196 pages were recorded as being translated. In 2013/14, the council's website migrated to a new content management system (CMS). A large number of obsolete webpages (both English and Welsh) were subsequently deleted. Web pages without a Welsh translation continue to not be published.
micro sites for touris	tes to agree revised deadlines for the sm (Bridgend Bites), the Grand Pavillion, garw House and Country Park, to be	E – Communications and Web Officer	Concluded. The rebuild of the Grand Pavillion bilingual website has been completed. Booking facilities will be provided by an English only interface. The translation of the Arts pages has been concluded. The Bryngarw website has been rebranded and has moved to an external provider. Tourism – 95 per cent of the English site content translated. Remaining 5 per cent will not be translated as it relates to links to 3 rd party content from hotels and bed and breakfast venues. Currently, users of the microsite cannot navigate between English and Welsh sections of the site once they are past the homepage. If they try to, they get automatically diverted to the homepage of their language choice. This problem was flagged up to the service area in October 2013 but is yet to be rectified.

Work with HALO to agree timescales for all web pages to be published bilingually. HALO responsible for bilingual website provision under BCBC Welsh language scheme as working in partnership with BCBC.		E – Communications and Web Officer in conjunction with HALO	HALO Website translated and main HALO link from BCBC is bilingual. Bridgend County Borough facilities are now bilingual.
